

Please help maintain the No Call List. Maybe banks should be able to call their customers for business related to accounts they already have, but they commonly use mail for that. Their purpose in calling is to create new business. My mother has lung cancer. Every time her phone rings she has to make her way to it. You could not imagine the effort that takes unless you've been there. She carries a cell phone everywhere in the house with her, but often doctor's offices or hospitals will use her land line, so she keeps it. The price she would have to pay for the banks' self-serving business-building is too much. I'm certain there are many people like her, and many more who do not need to be at the beck and call of Bank One and the rest - obviously, that is why we have a No Call List, and why it is so strongly supported. Please be a true representative of the people and resist the pressure from these banks. Thank you.
